VINTAGE

Winter was cold and wet with good dormancy. Bud break was slightly later due to the long winter. Strong winds during flowering affected yields but overall the quality of fruit was excellent. Summer was warm and dry with cool evenings, resulting in balanced wines with enhanced aromatics.

VINEYARDS

The heritage bush-vine Chenin Blanc vineyards are located in the Agter-Paarl region. These dry-farmed vineyards sit on a basin of shale – the vineyards on the cooler, South-facing slopes produce grapes with pronounced stone fruit and flinty characteristics, while blocks located in warmer pockets produce concentrated fruit with intensity and texture.

WINEMAKING

Grapes were hand-picked and immediately destemmed, crushed and pressed. After overnight settling, the juice was racked off the gross lees and a small amount of fine lees was added back to give texture to the wine. The juice was fermented in a combination of neutral oak (27%) and the rest in stainless steel. Aged for 9 months on fine lees before bottling.
